MARINA FOR WHOM?

["Starlight Harbor Marina: City Council Approves," June 28] is hardly a win for city residents and taxpayers. First, the issue seems to be resolved — a least $2,300 a month during the first year, and likely to be twice that for years two through 40. Yet, the city will not be a cut-of-the-gate — whether grass or not — in the apartment — but the first $500,000 is exempt in year one, and, as reporter Alex Fennell writes, the first $1.3 million is exempt thereafter. And $10M will have the free use of 23 parking spaces in season. Had Starlight Park & Recreation been allowed to build it, we could have done much better financially.

What else is not in the City Council's estimate that $25,000 may be needed to show up the footage on the south side of city's water treatment facility. That doesn't the $100,000 in direct TV subsidy to the developers whose repayment from tax increments on leased public property seems a consideration in terms. Third, maps of the project indicate both launching facilities but virtually no boat storage that was a puzzle until one notices an island road from the launching ramp to the Urban Reserve. This project will operate as a water storage facility for much of the year, but is considered designed will require the use of Urban Reserve for boat maintenance and storage. What public-oriented marina wouldn't sell water storage and storage?

All parties to this agreement should spell out their plans for the Urban Reserve or cross that dotted line that indicates a road running from the marina to the heart of our northern public park area.

Charles Simpson
BURLINGTON

TROUBLED WATERS

["Boating Point," June 28] missed the crux of this story. The water, however, "Water Rights, Scullers and Motorboats in Cuddahus" is dashed down and secondary. Scullers and motorboats are not the issue. Cuddahus Outdoor Center the commercial operation that brings scullers to Great Harbor Pond is members for greater than in practical use. Since July Gear and Dick Davidson purchased it in 2008, CDC has consistently pushed the lake's capacity. Many public users of the lake are put off by CDC's attitude that in use of the lake is somehow more prestigious and thus more worthy.

Great Harbor is legally defined as a Vermont public body of water. While one can access CDC as a nonprofit inside a foundation, in reality, it's a commercial operation, if not as outright 840 acres of Cuddahus. There is significant disparity between what CDC claims to be and what in practice it really is. While CDC often "parks" to the community, these are well-placed public relations maneuvers designed to placate the locals and help grow the site, so we lack. Don't think for a minute this isn't about the money.

First governments have made peaceful and coexisting use of the lake. The presence of COC has changed the chemistry and created chaos at Great Mallet. Is there another public body of water in Vermont where the public needs to set up an appointment in order to use a lake?

TRUMP TEST

In Paul Hester's June 29 Fox Game column ("Trump's Story"), he notes that gubernatorial candidate Bruce Lomax hasn't yet figured out whether he will support Donald Trump.

At this stage, with all of the publicly available information, if Lomax isn't smart enough to know whether he supports Trump or not, then he's obviously not smart enough to be governor.

Michael Kilbourne
SOUTH BURLINGTON

NO PLACE FOR GUNS

I want to sincerely thank Paul Hester for his June 29 Fox Game "The Gun." June 30 I hope that this story will shock the state out of its general ignorance about its gun laws. That he could purchase something so lethal without at least getting certified — like the people buying beer later on in his piece — is something to contemplate with care.

Burlington Police Chief Brandon Del Preo said of Hester's purchase: "We're beginning to see some of the consequences of access to these types of weapons." I survived a drive-by shooting. About 20 years after that, I lost a female friend to anti-racism; her car was torn into pieces. The shooter, a respectable gun owner at the time, had purchased a weapon similar to Hester's and so nearly as casual a manner I know the man, too. It is evident that few in our status quo really care about those who pay the consequences. Officers will change nothing. Neither will the next one.

Vermont has been awfully lucky that it has not embraced its own Auer, Newton or Tucson. That could change at any second. Maybe the next individual who buys an AR-15 in a parking lot will not be so fortunate as Hester.

Malcolm Capenier

TRIGGER WARNING

I would like to comment on the gun purchase by your beloved investigative reporter wannabe (Fox Game "The Gun," June 30) As the pro-gun people say: if you take away our guns, only criminals will have them."

Any law-abiding gun owner would have seen that the type of deal Hester pulled borders on the level of the unicorn. I will bet you anything that the gun in question was stolen. Would he have bought a TV or CD player under those conditions?

There to top it off, Brian Deal leaves the gun in his backyard of his car in downtown Burlington. I guess they should expand the questions on the federal form to include: Are you now or have you ever been a member of the posse? An affirmative is an automatic rejection.

IN DEFENSE OF RAFTAPALDOZA

I'm at a loss for words with regard to the far-out negativity toward Raftapaldoza (Jiff Message: "Planned Raftapaldoza Makes Waves in Colebrook," June 30). It's one event, one day that celebrates those who like to take to the water and enjoy life, people, relaxation, friends. What great! Most people have docks from which they travel or use the Mallets Bay access. The cars and trucks are from beachgoers, and that is constant throughout the year. Every event has its hosting features. I dislike the Colebrook marathon. It creates traffic havoc; people are everywhere. I'm stopped at home for hours unless I leave town early and return late. What about the Fourth of July celebration? Parades and concert series? I'm disappointed in the club's opinion, if wishes and statements. Can't we learn to enjoy what makes us happy? Or we could cancel every public event and sit home and watch TV. E.R. Thanks, Jeremy Desjardis and crew, for all you have done!

CATHOLICS to CATHOLICS

A story of lost land

BY ALICIA FRETZ AND DANIEL LINDSAY

THE CATHOLIC DIOCESE BUILT AN ORPHANAGE IN THE 1970S ON BURLINGTON FARMLAND OVERLOOKING LAKE CHAMPLAIN.

IT WASN'T A HAPPY PLACE FOR MANY OF THE CHILDREN.

YEARS LATER, FORMER RESIDENTS SUED THE DIOCESE FOR ABUSE.

TO PAY OFF ITS LEGAL BILL, THE DIOCESE SOLD THE 33-ACRE PROPERTY TO BURLINGTON COLLEGE IN 2010.

FIVE YEARS LATER, THE SCHOOL WAS DEBT-RIDDEN AND TO STAY Afloat, BURLINGTON COLLEGE SOLD MOST OF ITS "LINE FRONT" LAND TO DEVELOPER ERIC FARRELL.

A YEAR LATER, BURLINGTON COLLEGE SHUT DOWN, AND FARRELL GOT THE REST OF THE PROPERTY.

ON JUNE 7TH HE PRESENTED HIS DEVELOPMENT PLAN FOR THE PLACE:

672 APARTMENTS AND CONDOS IN 13 BUILDINGS UP TO FIVE PRIVATE HEALTH CLUBS, GARDENS AND A DOG PARK

FARRELL IS NAMING THE PROJECT FOR A NEARBY GEOLOGICAL FEATURE THAT PREDATE'S THE LAND'S HUMAN HISTORY.

For Governor

A New and Better Direction FOR VERMONT

Over the last 6 years state spending has increased by more than $700 million, requiring massive increases in taxes, fees and surcharges. Where was Phil Scott? He went along with Gov. Shumlin who increased our state budget by 5 percent, in an economy that is growing at less than 2 percent.

Bruce wouldn't have done that! BRUCE WILL:

- ☒ Limit spending increases to 2 percent and find another 1.5 percent in efficiencies.
- ☒ Stop tax increases.
- ☒ Repeal the Veterans' Retirement Benefits Tax and rollback the tax on Social Security benefits.
- ☒ Shut down Vermont Health Connect, transition to the federal exchange, audit Medicaid, and offer more affordable choices and options.
- ☒ Require competitive bidding for state contracts.

Your Vote Matters

Vote early at your Town Clerk's Office or on August 9th during the Republican Primary.

Bear Grylls to Shoot a Show on Lake Champlain – With Shaq?

Get ready for a 10-episode attack.

Do-USA's great Shaqville Effect is expected to perform a stunt for a reality TV show that is shooting this week on Lake Champlain. A producer for the NBC program "Running With Bear Grylls" visited the Coast Guard station on the Burlington waterfront last Thursday to ask Canine to participate in the event, said Jason Bellini, a party officer first class who met with the producer.

The producer said the 14-foot-11 legend, who will be scheduled this year into the National Museum of American History, will likely be a guest on an episode to be shot Friday or Saturday on the New York side of the lake, according to Bellini. It would be filmed near the town of Wilkes, about 30 miles south of Plattsburgh. The episode will include some aquatic diving, possibly involving a helicopter and a plane.

Producers asked the Coast Guard to "be in part of the show," Bellini said. "The Coast Guard would assist Bear Grylls by getting them out of the situation, getting them out of the water."

Bellini said he didn't know exactly what the stunt would be. "It's something to do with their show—a survival-type thing."

The request has gone up the chain of command and higher-ups outside of Burlington are deciding whether or not the local Coast Guard can take part, Bellini said. "Wild features host Grylls and various celebrity guests as they paddle through treacherous, uncharted waters, scale cliffs, wander the desert and swim through pounding surf. Past guests include President Barack Obama—who appeared with Grylls in Mumbai—actor Zac Efron and actress Michelle Rodriguez."

Know Your GMOs: Vermont's Labeling Law Takes Effect

Two years after the legislature approved it, Vermont's much-ballyhooed bioengineered food labeling law is now in effect Friday.

Advocates say it is a signal achievement in consumer rights. But it's not clear how much change the average consumer will actually notice.

The relevant Office of the Attorney General says that because many packaged foods have long shelf lives, regulations are essentially granting a six-month grace period. Until January 1, regulations will assume that improperly labeled foods were packaged and distributed before Friday, and manufacturers will not be held liable if the labels are not in compliance.

However, the Attorney General's Office warned that no manufacturers, retailers or producers will be granted an extension beyond that, and manufacturers can be fined $1,000 per violation.

The Associated Press reported that large companies such as General Mills and Campbell's have printed and shipped labels, complying with the law and banning no products.

Cona Cole has said that some of its smaller brands could be temporarily unavailable in Vermont. And WABC reported that Price Chopper confirmed that more than 3,000 products would not be stocked in its Vermont stores, including some products from Old Market Foods and Mountain Brands.

Meanwhile, Vermont's GMO law is still threatened. A bipartisan U.S. Senate GMO labeling bill—one seen as more lax than Vermont's and aimed by food industry lawmakers—was reintroduced by Sen. Joe Manchin (D-Mo.) last week. It would require labeling less across the country will be unlikely.

ACLU Criticizes Heavy-Handed Policing of Rainbow Gathering

The American Civil Liberties Union of Vermont criticized the U.S. Forest Service and law enforcement agencies for what it called overzealous policing of the Rainbow Family of Living Light's gathering in the Green Mountains last week.

The ACLU said it was unrelated with complaints from Rainbow campers that police were running checkpoint-style stops, detaining people for minor infractions and subjecting them to drug searches without reasonable suspicion.

Activists also have told that people are harassed by increased searches of their person, vehicle or belongings, that they are subjected to abusive and prolonged questioning by state, local and federal law enforcement, and that children, the party's federal officers on public federal lands are being housed "the ACLU said in a statement on Friday.

The ACLU's comments came a day after Gov. Peter Stuenkel called on law enforcement to step up on the participants at the gathering. In Mount Mansfield, he said, "I don't want anyone harmed. I don't want anyone harassed." Stuenkel said, according to WABC, "Let's live and let live."

A Seven Days reporter spent time at the campsite and observed some light marijuana use but no acts of violence or serious disorder. Police ranging from three officers to almost a dozen kept a constant presence at the entrance to the camp.

The crowd size peaked over the fourth of July weekend with more than 10,000 attending, according to the forest service.

Dear Cecil,

Now that the sea levels are rising, I'm sure someone out there is already thinking of ways of making a few quid/bucks (not that I'm interested myself, you understand). Who will profit—or, indeed, profiteer—from this sea change?

Chris

I submit to you, Chris, that given the various depredations of our modern era, the distinction between profiting and profiteering is, like the Louisiana coastline, rapidly eroding. In the older days, profiteering involved an emergency, such as very monitory or enterprising folks to rush in and make an easy buck. Now, of course, we face a prospect of constant emergency, from steadily rising sea levels to increasingly extreme storms to lethal heat waves. It's a good time to be in the re-construction business, is all I'm saying.

But there's profiteering and there's profiteering, if you know what I mean. So in the spirit of Old Testament-style pugnacity, I thought I'd arrange various ways one might cash in on climate change from least to most evil. These wanting to make a profit in this arena are advised to stick near the top of this list if they want to keep their souls.

Renewable energy. One hopes, finally, that there's a group apart or two out there trying to get rich off solar, wind, geothermal, etc., may they ever proliferate.

Flood mitigation. A proposed set of enormous gates, to be installed south of New York City's Vermonter-Narrows Bridge as protection from another Hurricane Sandy-like storm surge, might cost something like $30 billion to build—which is, frankly, a deal given the potential scale of future flooding damage. Per Tech website the Virgin, flood-damage construction's an industry that's "posed to take off." It might hit $2 billion in the U.S. by 2050.

Trade Hays are might be melting in the Arctic faster than anywhere else in the world, but that's a boon for shipping. When the Northern Sea Route—along Russia's Arctic coast and through the Bering Strait—is open, as opposed to frozen, the trip from Los Angeles to China shortens by nearly a third.

Land grabs. Farscening a lack of arable land and woe-wyling about food shortages, investors in the U.S. China and elsewhere are buying up turf around the globe. When "bidders" are content by their own governments to play ball (as in Ethiopia and Cambodia), you can see where this might result in a little geopolitical tension. How tangled a web is this? A 2004 study found that Chinese investors had purchased land in 23 countries, Ethiopia had sold land to 28 countries. A study from 2013, meanwhile, guessed that between 19 percent and 175 of agricultural land worldwide had either already been transferred from local to foreign ownership or was then in the process of being thus grabbed.

Arctic tourism. We recently discussed here a Russian mackerel icebreaker that offers two-week cruises to the North Pole. If you're thinking about a longer and riskier mission, the cruise ship Crystal Serenity, with a per-passenger carbon footprint three times that of a 747, will take you from Alaska via Greenland to New York; don't mess, off the starboard deck, the poignant sight of polar bears struggling to death atop dwindling ice floes.

Water. A New York hedge fund called Water Asset Management has begun buying up water rights worldwide in response to increasing drought.

In a Bloomberg article on climate-change investment, one financial adviser complains of an "overemphasis on [global warming's] negative impacts", looks to these guys for their glass-half-full optimism, not to mention their pioneering adoption of a new form of economic colonialism. (Yes, moreover, you saw this at the very end of The Big Short, where it's revealed that the Christian Lede character, the hedge-fund wonk who foresees the housing crash, has once gone all-in on water.)

Arctic drilling. You'll note the pleasing circularity at work here by turning enough fossil fuel to warm the North sufficiently to melt the polar ice caps, we've now gained access to yet more fossil fuels buried under those ice caps. There remain some challenges to extracting these logistical, because the weather up there sucks, political, because Barack Obama has placed restrictions on the practice. Still, one Bloomberg analyst said recently he'd be "very surprised" if these bundles part of oil and gas companies off faster. They're nothing if not plucky.

Then there are cases where the effects-potential calculus gets more complicated. We hear lots of inventing worldwide about the melting of Greenland's ice sheet, but folks in Greenland use a good deal more language about it—they anticipate that as ice depletion renders minerals, oil and gas more accessible and improves the local fishing, the island might finally have enough cash on hand to declare its independence from Denmark. So they benefit, albeit in a somewhat fraught manner.

And I haven't even mentioned the launch destruction company now selling smoke-making machines to Alpine ski resorts, the firms providing high-end private firefighting services to other Californians or any other of the go-getters who will demonstrate again and again the impressive viability of the free market. The possibilities, really, are endless. Unlike, say, the continued health of the planet.

WTF?!

What Would Make
Silverware Magnetized?Words: Pamela Polston
Art: Stephanie Zuppo

Seven Days has received many odd questions from readers over the years, but this one might be the strangest. And it remains mysterious because - spoiler alert! - we still don't know the answer.

Hello, physics profs!

"We were waiting for supper at Longhorn Steakhouse in Millington last night when my wife noticed her silverware begin to behave strangely."

"As she arranged her eating utensils, she noticed them waving toward each other. It became apparent they were magnetized."

"The attraction was strong enough to lift a heavy knife off the table using another knife as a rock. We asked the waiter, who had no clue. What could have caused this?"

I called up the fellow, Dave C., who had sent in this question.

I did not expect you would actually get in touch with me!

He was not a wing nut. And he was still mystified by the magnetized silverware.

I spoke to Longhorn managing partner Mike Ginnett and passed along the question. He was mystified, too.

I have no clue. I've never heard of such a thing.

Mike was polite but firmly certain he couldn't help.

It's a funny question and I wish I had a better answer, but I don't.

I spent a long five minutes reading up on magnetic fields, but still can only imagine why electronics acted out on Dave's table that day at the Longhorn.

LOYAL TO LOCAL: In White River Junction, Dave Briggs champions the creative economy

Words: Jim Schley

Drawings: Jarad Greene

Eventually, Dave revealed a secret: He wanted to be an innkeeper.

A succession of arts events came to the Briggs Opera House, renamed for Dave's parents: the White River Theater Festival, founded in 1988, the Cabin Fever Music Series and Parkes Brass Band Festival - and, in 1998, the professional theater company Northern Stage. Dave had become an arts promoter.

A number of businesses and organizations passed through the Gates Briggs building, including Chelsea Green Publishing and the Upper Valley Food Coop. Hotel Coolidge is now on the National Register of Historic Places. Across the street, the Center for Cartoon Studies launched in 2004.

In 1992, Dave's dad died of cancer. His mother, Bonnie, took over managing the Gates Briggs building.

In 2015, Dave lost his biggest tenant, Northern Stage, to its new theater around the corner. He thought about the former J.J. Newberry storefront downstairs, rented for years for bingo games. Next door, Tuckerbox cafe needed to expand.

This spring, the bingo games moved elsewhere, the Tuckerbox expansion began, and Dave is turning the rest of the space into a year-round farmers and artisans market. It opens in August.

Them Apples

SHACKSBURY WILL GET A "PUBLIC FACE" IN VERMONT. SHACKSBURY cidery in Shelburne has gleamed significant praise, both locally and nationally, since co-founders COLLEEN and DAVID BOLGONIN began pressing apples in 2013. Now the cider makers are gearing up for their next venture: moving Shacksbury's production to the Kennedy Brothers building at 11 Main Street in Vergennes, where they'll have an on-house tasting room.

"Our plan was to focus on wholesale for the first couple of years," says Davis, "but we're ready to have a public face." Since opening for business, Davis and Bolgoin have fermented their small-batch ciders in the barn on Davis' personal property, with supplementary production at VERMONT BEEHIVEBAND STATION, formerly the ShantBox Apple Co-op. The old co-op will still be used for shipping and distribution, but the new Kennedy Brothers location will be the main showcase for Shacksbury Cider's repertoire.

A modest bar area will have draft lines available for tasting, accompanied by simple bites such as local cheddar, charcuterie and roasted nuts — "light fare that goes great with our ciders," says Davis. On-site taps might include cool flavors of cranberry, dry Classic, aromatic, refreshing Apple and mellow, spicy Bragoo. Small tanks will hold special-release blends only available in-house, such as "Pee-Nut," an unfiltered cider naturally fermented from "laser" apple varieties and old-world English blends.

Shacksbury's facility will occupy the whole eastern section of the L-shaped Kennedy Brothers building, a former grocery built in 1909 and restored in 2002. Design plans call for glass walls with clear views of the cider cellars and manufacturing process. An event space is also in the works, where Davis hopes to feature food trucks, guest chef pop-ups and Bragoo-themed dinners.

"We're excited to connect with the Vermont community and internet with the people who love to drink our ciders," Davis says. "The deal aligned the lease on the space on May 27 and hopes for an early 2017 opening — "I'm not sooner," he adds.

Drinking Town

Over the weekend, the Vermont beer world was abuzz with the news that the ACQUINT had opened its new brewery and visitor center in Stowe. (See following story.) But it wasn't the only new arrival: On Wednesday, June 28, across town, TAP at quietly opened at 151 Main Street.

The new business offers 28 American craft beers on draft. The opening list included local brews from VON TRAPP BREWING, BURLINGTON BEER, NEW STAR BREWING, FRANKLIN BEER, BOUTIQUE BREWING and others, along with a wide array of California beers. The dual-story facade makes sense, since Tap 25 co-owners TIM and

CAROLYN have a similar bar in the San Francisco Bay area. To eat, Tap 25 offers small bites such as orange-halo on pretzel rolls, flatbread, paninis and burrito plates, courtesy of Stowe native and recent NEW ENGLAND CULINARY INSTITUTE grad JOE BROWN.

Later this summer, the Bryans plan to start hosting live bands three nights a week. "Stowe is integral to our place in California," Tim Bryan told Stowe Daily last week, adding that, so far, locals seem to be embracing the pub. "Wednesday night was beyond expectations," he said. "People just wandered in from the village and found it easy to hang out."

For his part, Bryan seemed excited to help grow the local beer scene, in concert with the other local pubs and breweries. "You can go wrong [in Vermont]," he said. "The beers here are world-class, the locals trust in the brewing community is exceptional."

Garden Throwdown

DRAWN BY JOHN FOX

MIDDLEBURY'S SEEDSHEET GETS THE GROWING STARTED

CAN MACKUGLER graduated from Middlebury College in 2009 with a degree in pre-architecture. soon, he began working for the Breadseed Corporation as an architect and LEED project manager.

TWO YEARS later, the idea for Seedsheet was born while Mackugler was house-sitting in Orwell for a coworker.

ALTHOUGH MACKUGLER enjoyed the direct access to food grown right at home, he had a tiny apartment and no space for raised garden beds.

SEEDSHEET LOOKS like a thin, black tarp that reveals circular pods of seed and soil when unfurled onto a garden bed.

Wood blocking fabric embedded with an ergonomically designed arrangement of disposable pods.

Each pod contains a buffer of soil and organic, non-GMO seeds from High Mowing Organic Seeds in Welsett.

When the fabric is unrolled and watered, the pods dissolve in 30 seconds.

With water seeping, plants eventually sprout through the 16-inch openings in the wood barrier.

The purpose is to condense the barriers of starting one's own garden—like time, space, knowledge and effort—into a simpler list of requisition: unroll, water, wait.

SEEDSHEETS come in various dimensions and compositions.

Seedsheet is scaling sustainable agriculture.

making the farming methodology that have been used for thousands of years into an accessible product that anybody can use.

"PIZZA GARDEN"

SEEDSHEET'S recent publicity helps prove its function. The company closed its first successful kickstarter campaign in December 2015, 2014, by Christmas Day 2015, Seedsheet was sold at Home Depot. At 18 months old, Mackugler's business is in 40 Home Depot stores across New York City and Seattle.

JOHN FOX is a cartoonist and farmer in Burlington. She also runs Red & Cong, a small comics press focused on great writing, with fellow cartoonist Anna McElvyn. johnfoxcaricatures.com

Wendy

AGE/SEX: 1 year-old spayed female

REASON HERE: Transfer from Animal Farm Foundation

SUMMARY: (only to love) Miss Wendy Darling (as she is affectionately known) is a sweet, happy girl who enjoys all there is to love about life: walks, chowies, learning new things and people... especially people! An extraordinary snuggler, Wendy is ready for anyone Wendy to share her passions with. She will make a great companion for hiking and playing in all of the seasons!

DOGS/CATS/KIDS: Wendy has lived with and done well with dogs at the shelter. Wendy hasn't been around cats. When outside she is interested in wildlife and may think creatures are fun to chase. We don't know her history with children, but she is a friendly girl to all she meets. Wendy is still working on her manners and may jump on children/accidentally knock them over.

WENDY KNOWS: "Sit" and "down," and she is great at food puzzles and clicker training!

Visit Wendy at HSCC, 942 Kindness Court, South Burlington, Tuesday through Friday from 1 to 6 p.m., or Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Call 852-0135 for more info.

Before advertising in Seven Days, I was scouting and cherry picking potential employees. I realized that I needed to reach a larger group of applicants, so I reached out to Michelle Brown, the employment account representative.

She helped me design a really creative ad that not only looked great, it worked. Within two days I started getting resumes and inquiries from quality individuals.

I'm a big fan of instant gratification and Seven Days' mixed media outlets have given me just what I wanted. Advertising with Seven Days should never be a trade secret — it should be common knowledge.

Heady to Stowe

THE ALCHEMIST BREWERY'S NEW BREWERY AND RETAIL TAVERN

Ever heard of Heady Topper? Focal Banger? Aren't they the coveted cans from that brewery in Waterbury?

Not just Waterbury. Those who crave the hour-long beverage store queues, peering for cans and four-packs of the renowned's famed ales, now have another option.

Last Thursday, June 10, the Alchemist cut the ribbon on a brand-new brewery and visitor center at 100 Cottage Club Road in Stowe. Here, beer aficionados can enjoy a tasting section, retail shop and educational area, with full views of the brewing process.

JAN KOSOWSKI, who opened the Alchemist with her husband, JIM, in 2003, says, "John and I look forward to being open to the public again. We missed the daily interaction with our community."

In the early days, the Alchemist was a no-stop brewery in Waterbury specializing in "fresh, unfiltered IPA." Then came Heady Topper, the brewery's first breakout beer. Crafted with an different kinds of hops, it's one of the most highly acclaimed beers in the world, holding cult status for its flavor, complexity and virtual unavailability beyond state borders.

The firm of the sought-after double IPA, the Alchemist's recent Stowe brewery has plenty of Heady for sale in four-packs and two-ounce draft samples. Four-packs of Focal Banger and the Crusher are also up for grabs.

Inside the brewery, the Rhinoceros street for a vibe that, Jen says, is "aggressive in nature," with hops gardens and cherry trees planned for the future. A network "continues to be central to the Alchemist's experience" as well, she notes, with "unspooling music and art installations" in progress as the space continues to evolve.

In addition to brewing Heady Topper and Focal Banger year-round, John will release a batch of "old-fashioned" from the brewery's days, available for sale as special-release beers. The facility will offer no growler fills and serve no food on-site, but the brewers are happy to supply a list of local restaurants to hungry patrons. "We don't want to take customers away from existing businesses," says Jen. "We want to complement them."

The Alchemist's draft production team cut since beginning work on the Stowe brewery continues Jen, came when they created 22 new jobs.

"In addition to having five in the brewery and making great beer, we now have an amazing staff of 46," she says. "There's really not one dad in the bunch. John and I sincerely look forward to coming to work and seeing everyone each day."

The Alchemist's Stowe brewery and visitor center satisfies customers' beer cravings Tuesday through Sunday from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

JUL 8 | MUSIC

Tray Anderson has been waiting on the lines since the age of 6. But there's nothing juvenile about his sound. The New Orleans musician—who goes by the name Troubadour Theory—has performed with Kenny Kenner, Mickelmore & Ryan Lewis, Jesse Thigpen-Henry, Green Day, Grace Potter and many others. Echoes of that diverse range can be found in his more recent compositions, which incorporate elements of rock, improvisational jazz and hip-hop into his traditionally fabulous Newline funk. ### Post Script

Steth Kahl was a poet before she was a playwright. She published a short chapbook at the young age of 20. But, in an interview with Poetry Foundation, she reflected, "I think playwrighting was attractive [to me] because it's multi-vocal; there are dialogues, there are many characters." Two in particular make sense in light of her days as a bard: Elizabeth Bishop and Robert Lowell. Two little America poets, on the faces of Kahl's 2002 episodic play Dear Elizabeth. The show homes in on their decade-long postal correspondence. Through abolition and divorce, suicide of loved ones and stays in mental institutions, the pair exchanged more than 400 letters. Take a peek inside the envelope at the Donat Theatre Festival staging of the show opening this week.

Bucolic Bards

Each Bucolic Bardsings was founded in 2003. The off-the-beaten-path series, based in the tiny town of Newington in Orleans County, aims to bring published poets to the Northeast Kingdom. The past's lineup spans with Miguel Jackson and Ellen McCulloch-Lovell. Jackson, a professor at the University of Vermont with four collections under his belt, is a familiar name to the poetry circuit. But McCulloch-Lovell, the first female president of Middlebury College and a former staffer to Hillary Clinton, published her first book of poems in 2008. ## Mocking Musicality Yusef Lateef, a satirist, songwriter and mathematician, is known for the expressive and scorching clothes he recorded during the 1950s and '60s. Making use of a more-edged trumpet, he covered poppies ranging from the American military to the periodic table. In 1966, British director Cameron Mackintosh gathered 24 of these mordant melodies for the stage. His sense of the tracheant tunes remains popular, and relevant, to this day. Catch the show and some laughs in the upcoming production by Lost Notion Theatre.

Over the Rainbow Mark Daly's big realization

Following the messy breakup of his band Chamberlin, Mark Daly was in a dark place—specifically, a cabin in the woods of Goshen.

Brokenhearted and confused, Daly was writing his way through his smokers.

Rocky, Dan Boles | Art: Will Dinski

Lyrically and musically, he was still stuck in Chamberlin's dark moodiness.

But then a transformation began.

Daly soon found himself caught in a whirlwind of inspiration.

Creatively rejuvenated, Daly opened the door on a new adventure.

Soon he saw band, Madala, took Burlington—and later, the Northeast—by storm in a wash of light pop hooks. And even brighter Spindies.

Though most of the cabin songs Daly wrote never saw the light of day, they inspired the tone and style that has thrived Madala fans far and wide.

But there is one cabin song on Madala's forthcoming record. It's called "Realization."

On the surface, it's a love song. But it's really about realizing that sometimes, all you need is what's closest to you.

Like, for example, when you start a great band with your best friends.

The Best Local Albums of 2016 ... So Far (Part Two)

Last week, we dug into some of the best local albums released in the first three months of 2016. It was an impressive list naming the greatest local folk to hip-hop to punk and beyond. This week, we cover April through June. And the collection of local records popping up in those three months might be even more impressive. As with Vermont's local music scene to bloom in the spring.

In early April, SHOOT BLUE helped draw our focus aside with a gorgeous EP. In Luke the Burlington folk duo's self-titled 2016 debut, the four-song EP is short and sweet. The understated gem is as notable for LUNA HENRIKSEN and TRAVIS GUYER's down-talking harmonies and heart-breaking melodies as for its literary bent. This is indie folk with soul and intellect — and out in that countable ACCOMPLISHMENTS sort of way.

Speaking of Cricket Blue, they'll handle opening dates for a group celebrating the release of its own brilliant new record, the IMPACT EP, this Friday, July 8, at Main Street Landing in Burlington. With the wit and wit of esteemed supervisor JAMIE KOSCHALAK, I reviewed that album, A Bitter for This, in cartoon form on page 58. We'll give it a more in-depth look later this month.

For now, know that it's on the short list for year-end best-of consideration.

As mentioned last week, it's been an impressive run for hip-hop in the 2016 through the first six months of 2016. It's also been a tragic time, marked by the untimely passing of beloved Burlington DJ and MC SHANE GIBSON — also an IMPACT in the days following his death in April. Back in the Building by UNDERMINDS, EP's due with local rapper SHANE a heavier weight. It also highlights how special a talent we lost. EP was known mainly as a DJ, but he had worked tirelessly on his rhyme game, too. And it shows on the album.

Fortunately, this won't be the last we hear from him. The ARTIST, the group for which EP is best known, are working on a new album featuring his unreleased verses. (In addition to founding members LUANNE and RED, the latest new include KIM, TRAVIS, songwriter JOHN ROBERT and EP's brother, drummer SCOTT CUNEO.) If the album comes out in 2016, it will put a cap on a great year in local hip-hop. To wit, SHANE GIBSON, a founding member of the UNDERMINDS crew, followed up that group's excellent 2016 release, Gravely Excessive, with a strong solo debut, Raised Right, in June. Though they weren't submitted to Seven Days for review, releases by rappers JOHN (Garage Vol. 1) and ROBERT (Dirty 21) added the quality and quantity of Vermont hip-hop.

Silly, ALAN WAGNER — also MATT BARNES — is no longer a Vermont resident. Also sad, SHANE still uses that goofy alias. But, as a parting gift, he left us with a stirring collection, Ge-Get Hart, in April. Like his 2015 album, Back Up All Your Guts, Wagner unashamedly reveals in classic indie-rock underpinnings. But Pipestone synthesizes the influence of WAGNER and WAGNER into a personal statement that both acknowledges and transcends his formative inspirations.

Former BEANSHAW keyboardist TRAVIS MATT took the keys to his own jazzed-up-but-rock, PERSONAL DEVIL, and spun out high-artisan "art groove" on Sterna Eterna in April. A supergroup of sorts, the geared-up band is composed of some of Vermont's most respected players, including drummer GALE HARRIS, six-time CHRISTOPHER PETERSON, guitarist COLIN LINCOLN and bassist MATT BARNES.

THU 7 / BEACH SLANG (PUNK)

Winter Is Coming

Discussing the inspiration for "Therapy," the lead song from BEACH SLANG's debut album, The Things We Do to Find People Who Feel Like Us, front man James Alex offers some advice. "Look, growing up and getting serious is really overrated stuff," he says. "Don't listen to it. Jump around with a guitar. Play records loud." In other words, Life is short here, so, incidentally, the Philly band's record is ideal for doing just that. It's a fast-pumping blend of indie-rock punk and melodic power pop, explicitly meant to be played at high volume. Beach Slang plays this Thursday, July 7, at the Higher Ground Showcase Lounge in South Burlington with AMBULANCE AND POTTY MOUTH.

THE BATTLE OF SANTIAGO (INDIE)

Song of Ice and Fire

Yonessa is heralded for its indie rock — bands, Broken Social Scene? However, it's less renowned for its vibrant Latin music scene, though the city is home to one of the largest Cuban expat communities this side of Miami. So, what happens when you cross those streets? You basically get the BATTLE OF SANTIAGO, a multicultural ensemble that fuses hot Cuban rhythms and melodies with the chilling post-rock stylings of our northern neighbors. Check out the Battle of Santiago this Thursday, July 9, at Antidote in Burlington.

THE DUPONT BROTHERS, A RIDDLE FOR YOU (SELF RELEASED, DIGITAL DOWNLOAD, VINYL)

WORDS: DAN BOLLES
ART: JAMES KOCHALKA

TO PARAPHRASE JOHN CUSACK'S
ROB GORDON IN HIGH FIDELITY..

MUCH LIKE THE DUPONT BROTHERS' PREVIOUS TWO RECORDS, RIDDLE POSSESSES A MELANCHOLY BEAUTY.

AND SOMETHING ELSE: HOPE.

GREENS AND YELLOWS
A CHOIR OF LEAVES
YOU LOOKED SO BEAUTIFUL

THE ALBUM MARKS SOME OF
THE DUO'S STRONGEST SONG-
WRITING TO DATE, AND THANKS TO THEIR SHARED DNA, HARMONIES
INTERWEAVE SO EFFORTLESSLY
IT'S SOMETIMES HARD TO TELL WHOSE VOICE IS WHOSE.

PRODUCER MICHAEL CHORNEY
SPARKLES BRETT LARSEN'S PEDAL
STEEL, WILLIAM MCCABE'S VIOLIN
AND ROB MORSE'S UPRIGHT BASS
OVER THE COMPOSITIONS LIKE STARDUST.

THE RESULT IS AN ALBUM THAT CHILLS AND SOOTHES IN EQUAL MEASURE.

IT IS ALSO THE ANSWER TO ITS OWN RIDDLE: WHY DO WE LOVE SAD SONGS?

A RIDDLE FOR YOU
by the DuPont Brothers is available at dupontbrothersmusic.com.
The DuPont Brothers play album release parties on Friday, July 8, at the Black
Box Theater at Main Street
Landing in Burlington, and on Saturday, July 9,
at the Flying Stage
in Barre.

JAMES KOCHALKA

is an Eisner Award-winning cartoonist from Burlington who has more books coming out just this year than some authors do in a lifetime. The most recent is the romance graphic novel 20 Cat in Love. topshelfcarns.com/catalog/james-kochalka

FRIDAY SORRY KNIGHT AND THE LARKS (SQUAD)

Knights of the Wail

Go ahead and pop. Sorry Knight and the Larks. Do it. Live on the 10-E. Pretty great, right? The recently released album was recorded at a club in the abandoned and band's native Minneapolis.
And it accomplishes a rare feat for a live record, brilliantly capturing the band's vintage grooves and Knight's Son
Cooke-esque vocals in a way that's almost as thrilling as listening to a person. Almost. Hear SORRY KNIGHT AND THE LARKS do it live this Friday, July 8, at Sticks & Steaks in Burlington, featuring members of local musical outfit

'Fixed/Flux'

ICA Center and the Vermont State Gallery feature the 10th year of the Seven Below Arts Initiative with this group exhibition, which will take different forms throughout its run. Founded in 2006 by Kristy Manning, each year the Seven Below program brings six artists to the "Seven" (studio) for in situ as artists rehearsal and recording studio) and provides them with studio space, a stipend and a scenic backdrop. This shape-shifting exhibition features works by 11 former Seven Below artists-residents: Hans Ha, Meghan Gordon and Gregory Andrews, Rye Lewis, Jonathan Monaghan, Shae Morrison, Oscar Smith, Jessica Sepp, Willy Sonnet, Rob Swenson, and The Kim Yu. Three of these artists — Gordon, Yu and Swenson — have been tasked with keeping the gallery spaces in constant flux, in order to "re-emphasize the gallery space as a place for live, fluid products and reputation it as a place for transitory work and evolving ideas." So, what will you see? You'll have to go to find out. Through October 1. Featured "seven below" by Meghan Gordon.

'Up in Arms: Taking Stock of Guns'

Shortly after the June 12 Orlando shooting, the Northbrook Museum & Art Center candidly opened a nine-artist exhibition that probes the relationships between Americans and guns. According to director Dorey Lichtenfeld, the show had been in development for several years. Quoting Martin Luther's assertion that "art is not a mirror held up to reality but a hammer with which to shape it," he and curator Mary Wilkerson argue that art is, in fact, both. Closer to the "hammer" end of the spectrum are images by documentary photographer Kyle Cassidy, who takes portraits of gun owners with their weapons. Arguably more toward the "hammer" side is work from Jessica Zampell, who has been "using guns in clothing, handbags, bags, camouflage material, candles, crocheted yarns and strings for decades." Her gun? "To 'silence' guns and render them invisible and even silly," writes Lichtenfeld and Wilkerson. And somewhere between the supposed mirror/hammer dichotomy come works such as those of Anne Graham, who creates delicate porcelain models of the guns in her father's collection. Through October 23, Pickett, 533 Ruess Ave./Lakewood, closed pending by Graham.

Wiener-Dog ★★★★★

If you're familiar with the twisted, tragic universe that writer-director Todd Solondz has created with eight features over 20 years, you may care to read on. I have good news. On the other hand, if you just asked yourself, Todd what, you might want to skip down to Margot's review. It's doubtful you'll be having a night in Wishy Washy.

So landing in a genre seems himself, and there the screen is at most no redaction and challenge. The film is actually a series of four darkly comic vignettes, linked only by the presence of the eponymous female dechaband. Well, the dog and the ever-present specter of death.

Tracy Letts and John Belushi anchor the first chapter as the bickering parents of a boy named Ram: (Kieran Ward Cook), who's survived an unnamed illness. The cutting is dead-on. These films make most dysfunctional movie families look like the Classics.

One day, Karel's father brings the girl home, and the child chimes in: "Welcome! Welcome!" (Karel's 1998: 100). Interestingly, the nickname of Doves (Doves in Karel's 1998: 100) Welcome to the Doll House! Highlights of this segment include a tracking shot of doggie diarrhea choreographed by Oscar-nominated cinematographer Edouard Lachance (Cordell and set to Delaney's "Clair de lune").

The boy has given the dog a grizzle but that made him sick. God decides euthanasia is next on the pet's menu, prompting a mochi- or non discussion of mortality that, besides being hilarious, flips a cliché on its head. "Nature doesn't care about [him]," Delly explains. "We're dogs' only friend."

Who should inherit the doomed duchy ahead before the yet can send him to heaven but Damián Winter himself, now a veterinarian role played by Gael García Bernal. Having grown up to be Greta Gervig, the once-outcast Damián is now popular with the neighborhood boys these days. When the bumps into former classmate Brandon (Joaquín Cárter), he senses her as a side to secret drugs and trust his brother (Germán Linares), who has Damián's confidence. The two share a touching, gut-busting scene throughout which Brandon attempts to explain that their father has died, and his brother eventually asks him

Next, we meet frustrated film producer Dave Schwartz (Denny DeVito). You'll notice the central characters get older with each successive cigarette. Aging — and becoming irrelevant — is what DeVito's chapter is about. His students' mockery drives Schwartz to the brink. And then over it. Not long after he begins making Wagner Doc nearby dunes, our jaws drop as we watch a bomb squad slowly approach the dog, now wrapped in a suicide vest.

But the saddest and most heartbreaking arguments are still to come. Ellen Houty's physician revealed who hides behind huge black sunglasses and remains the victim: Cancer she's visited by a twin by pseudonymity (Zoe's Mami), who hangs along her estray boyfriend, Fantasy (Michael James Sharf). "Don't let yourself be the old woman who catches the spiky pure claims not to be concerned about looking different because she's still young."

The granddaughter then describes Fantasy's work as a commercial fusion of theater and robotics that isn't derivative of Disney.

Hirst: "Fuck Damien Hirst," adds Terraviva. That's incredibly funny stuff, assuming you know who Hirst is — google him if you don't. The punch line is the film's final image. But stay a least bit and see the most bizarre visual in Indelible Images. Prepare to be shocked and

And prepare for 80 minutes of sleepers, comic and surprising scenes. The film makes a laudable reputation for a masochistic worldview, a longing for suburbs, and obsessions with perversion and fidelity. Island's new work reflects those themes, but it also reveals deeply, almost wrenchingly, that's all right. Don't let yourself. You can teach an old dog new tricks.

RICH SIEGMAN

Swiss Army Man ★★★★★

It's a good year in American art houses. For Eliaz with premises that sound like they were scooped from a Dustland Twitter feed. First came The Lover, depicting a scenario in which single people are condemned to be surgically transformed into animals. Now here's Swiss Army Man, in which a flanneltop corpse shows up just in time to show a depressed young man the measure of life.

Comedy-makers duo Dan Korman and Daniel Seltzer make their feature debut with this film that seems partly inspired by Adam Sandler fan-fests, partly by earnest indie flicks and partly by the fun of mocking both genres. At the Sundance Film Festival, Swiss Army Man reportedly caused a mass walkout. But reviewers who aren't intrinsically opposed to toilet humor may actually find this raucous prurient farce — and, thanks to the conviction of its lead roles, sometimes scarily serious

Paul Dano plays neo-child Hank, a lone wanderer on a speck of a desert island. Laid as many mile-minut protagonists, he's defined by a free-floating sadness. When he attempts to kill himself, the only memory that flashes before his eyes is one of sitting on the bus shared to his shame.

Then the corpse washes up on shore. Played by Daniel Radcliffe (yes, the guy who made his name as Harry Potter) and christened "Manny" by Hank, the stiff has magical properties. So powerful is Manny's guidance that Hank rules him "Like a Jap."

IFK is a club that plays a unique and vital direct action on the community of its members.

His mother, meanwhile, has usually spent her fresh water and food purchased his directions would look like a compass. There's still life left in Monkey, and he wants Hsueh to educate him about a world he doesn't come after. To make use of the corpse's life-saving powers, Hsueh must transcend himself in measures and circumstances of a life that the Minus if never really knew how to live.

That's where the film's absurdity shades into something genuine, in large part because either actor holds back or winks at the audience. In Dene's long history of playing misfit characters, Hank is probably the least cool of them all, but somehow goddly transparent. And Ruffalo manages to make a pomp-faced corporate executive and sympathetic. With his ungainly, half-placed body and naive enthusiasm for everyday human rituals, he suggests a homier version of KJ — the best friend an overgrown kid like Hank could have.

The growing hoarseness of these two comes complete with those clanking on the soundtrack and geometrically handsome props reminiscent of Michael Gondry movies. Whenever these elements threaten to transform the movie into a life-affirming celebration of imagination and whimsy, however, Disney's healthy sense of pragmatism comes down to earth with a noisy roar. Robots might have improved.

Swiss Army Man says a little in the middle, but, toward the end, it takes a few new turns that put everything in a fresh perspective. The film rolls inventively on a subgenre of movies about people who learn how to live in modern conditions only by leaving it, from Cast Away to Where the Wild Things Are (Does the overbearing American Park ranger make you trust him or not, Scott?).

It's sometimes tempting to dismiss it all as a big joke, a ready-made meme. But there comes the moment when Hank re-creates his has-cue memory for Missy (complete with headphones cranked from vinyl). In the original memory, the world beyond Hank was out of focus. For the re-creation, Hank has pointed the windows of his improvised "bar" with access to the world. Hank stares at it. Speculatively wonder. Having ignored the world when it was really there, Hank dreams it back into existence — and, just for an instant, the weary feels that wonder, too.

Best words of 2004 Life: A major multiplatform (British) magazine, working tirelessly in the UK, picks the year's college professors (Iwan Morgan) in the magazine drama based on the John le Carré novel, Wild Orchid (Mark, Gwyneth White, Nancy McPhee, Johnnie Lee, DGB, Ben, S. Sam, David).

THE SECRET LIFE OF POTS: What do pot growers spin when their crops are away? Plenty of interesting, but ultimately fairly generic, suggestions. Iain F. K. reviews a former Lyring field with some dog in his pants (Neil Kross), Jerry Mide and Robert Brooks (he contributed their voice talents), Glen Seaman (disposable Mc), and Norman Cherry (directed, 100 mins, PG). Capital, Home, Magsid, Marquis, PAFK, Mews (Lond, Wash).

NOW PLAYING

THE SPONGEBOB Marvel Spellingberg directed this funny adaptation of Nickelodeon's quirky fantasy show of a young fish (Paul Giamatti) who befriends a "big isandy beast" (Mark Ruffalo), and by the way (G) — we discover that not all places are as well depicted as under the sea. With Rebecca Hall and Ed Harris (G) min. PG

CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE ♦ ♦ ♦ ♦ ♦ A high school couple hangs together as CIA agent (Wayne Adams) and a mild-mannered accountant (Kevin Costner) adventure in the real world in this offbeat comedy. Buddy Kennedy (from director Randal Marshall's Thelma & Louise) is the man PG-13 (underlying S.E.C. 0000)

THE CONSUMERS 2000 Senior business deal and lawyer Warren (Patrick Stewart) and Fern Fernandez (in another supposedly "true" score) glory from their case files. With Madonna Waite and Frances O'Connor, James Wan again directed. (B) See it: www.warnerbros.com, 6/9/01

FREE KENTE OF JAMELO Kente is the last, best Call Ruckus on Madison McCannaghery's life. A Mississippi farmer who founded together with local street to help the Confederate flag from the state and the state of Mississippi. Kente also star Gary Ross. (Pittsburgh) (collected) (TV) (see 8)

BOOKS Theologic dreamers bowed only that Solinger's editor Maxwell Geismar (Tale Told) built shaping the literary centers of Thomas Wolfe (Lionel Lin), J. Scott (Hogan 14) (New Poets) and Ernest Hemingway (Barnes West), with Noelle Wideman and Laura Lacey (Michael Gaudin) readers, his dreamworld debut. (2014) (PG-13)

INDEPENDENCE DAY RESISTANCE—Willard's moviegoer extends his fight to his isolated township. His FBI-placed neighbor (Madsen) isn't able to look for him. With this love, Jeff Goldblum, who has been in the movie, makes a move and looks at it. There are some things that the player has been in the movie and in the film, (LCC) only, PG-13

CARTOON FANS, UNITE!

That is, help Seven Days unite around a brand-new cartoon for this page.

If you've been following Lulu Fights! you know artist Emily Fiske* is retiring from making her long-running cartoon. We're sorry to see her go, but this opens an opportunity for some other lucky cartoonist to fill the hole here.

If you have a favorite you think we should hire, send us a link to his/her website. If we pick your cartoon, and you live in Vermont, you'll be entered to win a gift certificate to a swill local restaurant!

If you're a cartoonist and feel free to scratch yourself and send us a link to your work. If we pick you, we'll pay you $2000!

Send your suggestion to pamela@sevendaysvt.com
Deadline for nominations: Friday, July 8, at noon.

*You can find out what Emily's up to at onlyfiske.com.

J. ENVIRON. QUAL. 27: 883-894, 1998. © 1998 by the American Chemical Society

As I gaze into my crystal ball and smoke a vision of your near future
 I find you communicating with elemental energies that are almost beyond your power to control.
 But I'm not worried because I also see that the spirit of fire is keeping you safe and protected. Your playful strength is fully unfurled, ensuring that love always brings you closer.
 This is a dire one come true: You have a joyous confidence as you explore and experiment with the Great Unknown, trusting in your fluidic intuition to guide you.

your stress levels. Assume that others are responsible for lowering your stress levels, they say. Resolve not to change anything about yourself. Hold on to everything you find that's responsible. Fear the future. Get motivated in brand battles. Try to win some games as you play old roles. Luckily the authors also offer suggestions on how to reduce your stress. Get good sleep; they advise. Exercise regularly. Don't drink too much coffee. Feel lots of gratitude. Clearly define a few strong, personal goals and let go of useless wishes, concerns and fears. You can opt to live with kindness, feel all that, inwardly it's an excellent place to start as you formulate your strategy for the second half of 2011.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Nervously live skeptical about numerous claims and sudden turns and stupendous breakthroughs. I vocal fantasize about a silver bullet that can simply and easily repair an entrenched problem. But I'm setting aside my caution as I evaluate your prospects for the coming months. While I don't believe that a sweeping transformation is guaranteed, I support it for as long as it's useful. I suspect you soon need to do

LEO [July 23-Aug. 22] "You can only go halfway into the darkest forest," says a Chinese proverb. Then you are dancing on the other side. You will soon reach that midpoint, Leo. You may not recognize how far you have already come, so it's a good thing I'm here to give you a heads-up. Keep the faith! New horizons await her star. As you have wandered through the dark forest, you've been learning practical lessons that will come in handy during the phase of your journey that will begin after your birthday.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-days 29) My devoted contingent of psychic detectives, intelligent spirits and psychic sleuths is tirelessly wandering the globe gathering data for me to use in writing your horoscopes. In recent days, they have reported that many of you Virgos are seeking expansive visions and making long-term decisions. Your life seems unusually relaxed about the future and is eager to be emancipated from shrunken possibilities. Crucial

But wonderful development has been an intention to stop observing an small details and need being distracted by transitory concerns. Hallelujah! Keep up the good work. Thank you! Susan! Susan!

LIBRA (pp. 23-32, $9) After years of painstaking research, the psychic surgeons at the Beauty and Truth Labs have finally perfected the art and science of Zeddy Malakows. Using a patented technique known as Mithraic Sense Engineering, they are able to transplant the planets of your horoscope into different signs and astrological houses from the aether, you will suffer an uncomparable impact with your Moon. The psychic surgeons cut and splice according to your specifications, enabling you to be reunited with the destiny you desire. Unfortunately the cost of this pioneering technology is still prohibitive for most people. But here's the good news: I saw in the coming months, you will have an unprecedented opportunity to acquire your own portion of the secret, but exclusive, Zeddy Malakows' technology.

SCORPION (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) In his glow, I was a paid artist with a promising future as a historical painter! But my aspirations were shattered in sophomore year when the coach belittled me from the team. My haircut and wardrobe were too weird for school. I found love in a sheltered little shop; but my enigma personality made him nervous and mad. At that time I was devastated by the epidemic fluing around the country. I was a loner, but I was grateful for the coach's efforts making my career as a jack-of-all-trades. He towered my true interests: poetry and music and astrology. I invite you to identify a comparable trend in your own destiny. Scorpions, what unexpected blessings came your way through a seeming adversity? The time to

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 23-Dec 21) Do you remember that turning point when you came to a fork in the road of your destiny at a moment when your personal power wasn't strong? And do you recall how you couldn't muster the plowing to make the most courageous choice but instead hovered in the direction that seemed easier? Well, Feb's, some intriguing ones. Your journey has delivered you via a convoluted route to a place not too far from that original fork in the road it's possible you could return there and revisit the options — which are now more mature and meaningful — with greater authority. Trust your subconscious.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) I love writing horoscopes for you. Your attitude in my sign is always very lively and I hope that you will continue to be so. If you have any more need, I have to continue to work on my approach to finding the truth. The three of us read about your destiny last month may not be applicable this month. My devotion to following your ever-changing story keeps me enjoying off-base concepts like the idea of total self-actualization. I protest, but your influence on me? Now I suggest that you compose a few three-day notes similar to the one I've written here. Address them to the people in your life who cause you and feel you and themselves on the best.

AQUARIUS Jan. 20-Feb. 19: After an ill-received month, we're back in the neck of the herd, but he can't hold a grudge against the opposite Sexling from a repeated nose-bump. He's a little more of a loner than we would. Thomas Gray notified that he's looking for a mate and found they can't reproduce. It's not possible as potter's PFII go with potterite. Perhaps we're a little hard on him for their rejection is wise but allowing and embracing their reticence and shyness should be taken. Greg Post standard is more clear the coming weeks. Aquarius People Close to you may engage in behavior that lacks full integrity, be compassionate but also be aware. www.astro.com

FISCES [Feb. 19-March 20] Can water run uphill? Not usually, but there's an economic magic considering myna vicinity, and it could generate phenomena that are compatible to water running uphill. I wouldn't be surprised either to see the equivalent of stars coming out at the daytime. Is a mountain moving out of your way? Or the trees whispering an oracle exactly when you need it. Be alert for anomalous Messages, Pisces. They may be so different from what you think it possible that they could be hard to recognize.

ARIES [March 21-April 19] Events in the coming week may tick your mind and tweak your heart. They might mess with your stomachs (compels and smokes tuck on your habits). But I think they will also energize your muscles and add melodic music to your mixtures. They will show you down in such a way as to engender approval and demand of spiritous circles with such lyrical grace that you may become delightfully clear-headed. Will you howl and moan? Probably, but more likely out of postural jay-jay than angst and anguish. Might you be knocked off course? Perhaps, but by a good influence, not a bad one.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In the book A Survival Guide to the Stress of Organizational Change, the authors tell you how to cope.

SEVEN DAYS PERFECT DATE

For relationships, dates and flirts: dating.sevendaysvermont.com

WOMEN Seeking MEN

LET'S MINGLE!

150 years that for the best they could do
— HilaryFox.datingpage.35

THIRTEENTH DATE

It's my time now. Making breakfast for two daughters. I'm ready to relocate for anyone and considering. Chemistry should take care of it on its own. This summer would be perfect time to meet. Profile, internet, take the time to please. "Class" is my hobby. I am on my own. I am looking for the same. NancyPage.datingpage.66 ☐

PART TWO

New Britain, New Hampshire.

DOMESTIC ADVENTURE-LOOKING FOR GARS

I am a recent transplant but I still live here for the beautiful Q.C. area. I am originally from Long Island, but I have lived in Pennsylvania, California, Massachusetts and Virginia as well as here and now I am looking for a partner. I'm looking for a forthright and perhaps a special companion who is into hiking and is not intimidated by a great time of outdoors. Theresa36.datingpage.36 ☐

WORKING, RATHER INDEPENDENT

Not here long (for a few years) and fast ready to find a good partner. I am hiking, walking, climbing, kayaking, swimming, skiing, fishing, doing. Most recently taking my cat hiking in working with young children. I am looking for a someone who is having fun with life and is friendly, outgoing and willing to be honest, so neither side is left. SA.63 ☐

TESTING THE WATERS

Some things about myself are that I love to travel, I would like play with the kids and animals. I would like a man who is intelligent, I enjoy the outdoors, I like to travel and can do his thing for his children and his family. Linda.36 ☐
